

CHARACTER ACTOR DAVID TICE ALLISON

Striving to deliver the drawn butter in every role he plays, David Tice Allison's penchant for breathing life into disenfranchised personas has afforded him a worthy list of stage credits.

Mr Allison's most notable visit to the stage recently earned him wide acclaim as the fly-eating loon, Renfield, in the Richard Sharp adaptation of Dracula.¹ He also has eight productions under his belt at the GK Hardt theater at 6th Street Playhouse, in Santa Rosa.

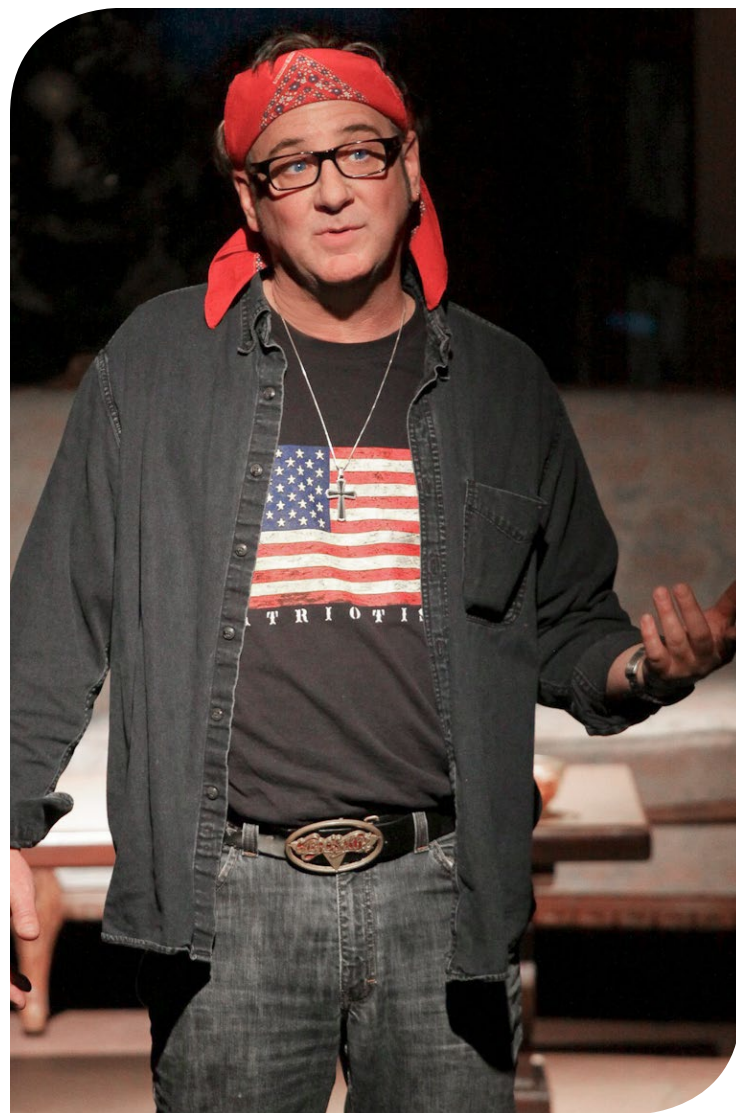

In that venue, David Tice Allison played the foppish solicitor and the brazen Mr Topper in A Christmas Carol,² plus one small (and notably creepy) role as

THE UNDERTAKER in the same production, in which he incorporated the essences of three aliens from the cult 60s TV show "Lost in Space."

Before that, he was the troubled Charles Cheswick in One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest.³ In August-Osage County,⁴ he was the sexual predator, Steve Heidebrecht. He played the despised older brother, Gooper, in Cat on a Hot Tin Roof.⁵ And in the west coast premiere of Kite's Book,⁶ he portrayed an eighteenth-century sociopath named Jack Wyld. In Gene Abravaya's The Final Scene,⁷ Character actor David Tice Allison strives to "deliver the drawn butter" in every single role he plays.

he played the damaged and droll cameraman, Boseman. In 2007 he played Connie in The Grapes of Wrath,⁸ as well as a disturbing bit part, MAN WITH THE CLUB — a role for which, having been on stage a mere thirty seconds, he is still remembered to this day.

Mr Allison's other credits include *Oliver!*⁹ playing Fagin, as well as the stage plays, Reckless,¹⁰ Dinner with Friends,¹¹ Snowing at Delphi,¹² A Skull in Connemara,¹³ and Ah, Wilderness.¹⁴ David Tice Allison is also known for his monologue stagings of Edgar Allan Poe's "The Tell Tale Heart" and "The Raven."
